

U.S. Department of the Interior
Bureau of Land Management

Rangeland Management Specialist Make a Career of It!

Do you yearn for wide, open spaces? If so, public rangelands might be just the right fit for you!

Rangelands are vast expanses of land dominated by grasses and shrubs that are grazed by wild animals and/or domestic livestock. Bureau of Land Management (BLM) rangeland management specialists work to ensure that these areas stay healthy and productive. They help regulate the number of livestock grazing the land, monitor the condition of native rangeland plants, and work to control invasive plant species. Rangeland management specialists also study how rangeland use impacts the animals and people that depend on the land.

Rangeland management specialists must consider information on plants, soils, wildlife, livestock, watersheds, land use policy, and the needs of local communities.

Interested? Please visit www.opm.gov/qualifications

U.S. Department of the Interior
Bureau of Land Management

Rangeland Management Specialist Make a Career of It!

blm.gov/careers